Russia Hints of Change in Space Plans

By HOWARD BENEDICT

AP Aerospace Writer

VIENNA (AP) — A Soviet space scientist hinted today that instead of building a new super-rocket, the Russians may be concentrating on sending up small rockets to form "large cosmic stations" in orbit. The cosmic stations could be used as a springboard to the moon.

Dr. B. V. Raushenbakh, in a report to the U.N. Conference on the Peaceful Uses of Outer Space, said small unmanned rockets were far less expensive and risky than superrockets.

American space officials reported recently that the Soviet Union may be developing a rocket more powerful than the United States' 36-story-tall Saturn 5, the largest booster ever launched. The Saturn 5 has placed 140-ton satellites in earth orbit.

But in a report on two unmanned Soviet space docking missions, Raushenbakh hinted that a new rocket is not in the Soviet plans.

He said there were two basic methods of placing heavy satellites in orbit.

"Either it is possible to make more and more powerful carrier rockets, or to put into orbit heavy satellites in parts, using comparatively small carriers, and then to assemble the required structure in the cosmos from the separate parts," he said.

"The first of these methods is associated with vast expenses. For even now large carrier rockets are as tall as a 30-story house and the advisability of further increasing their height is called in question by many experts."

Raushenbakh said the Russians twice have demonstrated automatic rendezvous and docking in space—with Cosmos 186 and 188 in 1967 and with Cosmos 212 and 213 this year.

Soviet scientists concentrated on unmanned rather than manned space linkups, he said, because of safety and economic considerations. Manned satellites—the technique of the U.S. Gemini program—have to be equipped with costly life support and re-entry equipment, he explained.

Negroes Want a Say in Union Policy

By LEE LINDER

Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Negro steelworkers, picketing outside and politicking inside, pressed today for black representation on the policy-making board of the AFL-CIO's biggest union.

I. W. Abel, president of the United Steelworkers of America union, had hoped that its convention this week would be marked by union solidarity. Abel was intent on political activity for the presidential bid of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

Humphrey appeared at Monday's opening, and was cheered for the partisan barbs he threw at the Republican opposition. His endorsement by the 1.2-million-member union is expected later in the week.

The protesting Negroes, claiming Abel has ignored their grievances, sought to involve Humphrey in their power pitch—but the vice president avoided a confrontation by sending an aide to hear their complaints. The answer was that this was strictly union business.

Today's scheduled speakers are George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, and Bayard Rustin, a civil rights leader. Meany is expected to avoid the picket line by entering the convention hall from the rear.

A Black Power caucus Monday night decided to set up a picket line—of at least 30 persons—outside the International Amphitheatre where the convention is being held. It also agreed to sponsor constitutional amendments requiring Negroes be appointed or elected to the offices of second vice president and district director-at-large.

The 33 white members of the executive board, including Abel, all are elected. Abel says "there is no discrimination in our union," that every member can run for any office, regardless of race, color or creed.

Thomas Johnson of Fairfield, Ala., chairman of the Negro committee, said Negroes comprise about 25 per cent of the steelworkers' membership. Abel put the figure nearer 15 per cent.

"We shall demonstrate outside because we have not been welcomed inside our union's house," said Johnson, "and our activity shall be escalated before this convention ends, if no favorable action is taken by our union leaders."

A committee spokesman said, "Right now, we are not planning any walkout. Those who are delegates are going to stay inside where they will be making the strongest fight. We don't want to mess up our union. We just want to be right there on top."

Burtens Are Visiting in New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton are in New York for a few days, so that the Welsh actor can return one of his daughters to a former wife, Sybil Christopher.

The Burtens arrived Monday on the liner Queen Elizabeth. Miss Taylor, looking pale, tired and tense, wore a white cotton eyelet dress with a loosely fitted waist, white stockings. Her black hair was pulled back into a white, petal-like hat.

On July 22, Miss Taylor, 36, underwent a partial hysterectomy in London. A spokesman for the couple said she was "well, but tired."

As they posed for photographers, Burton was asked about rumors of an impending separation. He quipped, "Yes, we're comparatively small carriers, and then to assemble the required structure in the cosmos from the separate parts," he said.

Young Citizens Camp Opens

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The 300 young boys attending the second annual Arkansas Young Citizens Camp have a chance to learn how to live together, says Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller.

Rockefeller made the statement Monday in a brief speech at the one-week camp, being held at Camp Robinson.

"This is an education experience not only in terms of living with each other... but it also gives you a certain amount of freedom, a certain amount of independence and a certain amount of adaptability," he said.

Manned docking missions, he said, will be necessary for flying to an automatically assembled space station, and docking is absolutely indispensable to the modern flight technique for such work as de-

August Will Continue to Be Hot

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

August weather at its hottest is expected to continue through Wednesday with very little chance of even scattered thundershowers for momentary relief.

A high pressure system that stretches across the South remains stationary, blocking all frontal systems that could change the state's weather pattern.

No rainfall was reported around the state in the 24-hour period that ended at 7:30 a.m. today.

Low temperatures reported around the state this morning ranged from 71 degrees at Harrison to 75 at Texarkana.

Highs reported around the state Monday ranged from 91 at Fayetteville to 98 at Blytheville.

Fulbright said. McCarthy is advocating inclusion of the NLF in a temporary coalition Vietnamese government and saying the United States should begin withdrawal if this is not done.

Vice President Humphrey, who generally supports Johnson's war policies has said that he cannot, as he put it, support imposing a coalition government on the South Vietnamese.

Fulbright did not specify a coalition government but argued like McCarthy when he said, "It may be found necessary to remind the South Vietnamese government that the United States seeks a compromise peace, that it is not committed to the objective of military victory for the present South Vietnamese government, and that it cannot, accordingly, allow the Saigon government to exercise a veto on American policy."

However, Fulbright's criticism of past administration decisions was relatively muted. He said the sending in of U.S. ground forces "was supported at the time by most responsible officials, including members of Congress who have since become critics of the war."

He added "American intervention in Vietnam has been the result of honest but serious errors in policy."

But John Kenneth Galbraith, Harvard professor and former ambassador who spoke for McCarthy, urged the platform writers not to "paper over this disaster" or to seek "a form of words which makes our recent Asian policy a success."

Modification of Turbo Jets Is Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force has ordered inspection and modification if necessary of its huge 135-series turbo jets following a fatal crash that may have involved structural failure.

Hundreds of planes, including large numbers in Vietnam are involved—among them the C135 tanker, RC135 reconnaissance, WC135 weather and EC135 electronics versions of the plane adapted from the Boeing 707 airliner.

The inspection program began after a KC135 tanker assigned to Castle Air Force Base, Calif. crashed June 30, killing several crewmen, the Air Force said in response to questions Monday.

It said the planes have not been grounded but have been placed under operating restrictions pending the checkout.

Explains Why Officer Was Demoted

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Police Chief R. E. Brians said Monday he had demoted J. B. Yancey from police sergeant to patrolman because of his attitude during the alleged killing of two law violators.

Brians demoted Yancey for the second time Aug. 5. He demoted Yancey April 25, one day after he promoted him to sergeant.

Brians was bound by law to promote Yancey because the Civil Service Commission certified Yancey at the top of its eligibility list of officers for promotion to sergeant.

A letter from Brians to Yancey was entered in the record Monday during a hearing before the commission.

Brians said in the letter that he demoted Yancey because Yancey reflected, both in action and words, "inhuman, abusive, prejudicial and unstable attitude and conduct" during two different incidents.

Yancey reportedly shot Joseph Holden Sept. 12, 1961 and was one of several officers who allegedly shot Eugene Carter one year later.

Brians, who was on the stand for more than two hours, said he had received information that Yancey was not "as remorseful as I felt he should be..."

Brians admitted under cross-examination that he did not know of any reprimands Yancey had received. He said there had been one letter of complaint "about hostility toward a black man."

L. Gene Worsham, Yancey's attorney, showed Brians copies of several commendations to which Brians said, "I'm sure there are several commendations."

It was also pointed out that Yancey had scored in the 90s on ratings used by the police department during the past three years. Brians said the scores were high but not exceptional.

"Don't you think you ought to consult the records before making serious charges," Worsham said.

"It's his attitude," Brians said. The hearing continues today at City Hall.

Airline to Reinstate 8 Workers

NEW YORK (AP) — Northwest Orient Airlines, after talks with the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists, agreed Monday to temporarily reinstate eight employees it had suspended for refusing to shave their sideburns.

The airline had suspended 14 cargo handlers and agents Saturday night for ignoring a company rule that sideburns end at the middle of the ear. Six bowed to the razor but eight took their protest to the union.

After the truce a company spokesman said a final executive decision in the dispute was not expected until Wednesday. Frank Cremona, a union representative, demanded an unrestricted sideburn policy.

"If the airline insists on any restriction regarding sideburns," Cremona said, "we will order the men not to shave and we'll make Northwest an all-hippie airline."

2 Charged in Slaying of Cab Driver

SHERIDAN, Ark. (AP) — Two persons who were charged with first-degree murder in connection with the slaying of a Little Rock taxicab driver will go on trial here Monday morning in Circuit Court.

Roger Dean Mosby, 22, of Redfield and Albert Norris Williamson, 20, of Little Rock are scheduled to stand trial for the murder of Ronald Edward Lovelace, 21, of Little Rock. Lovelace's body was found in Grant County June 10, seven days after he was reported missing.

said of the U.S. troops doing the fighting. "They are going to have a voice in this campaign before its over."

In withdrawing from 1968 presidential politics nearly five months ago, Johnson said he wanted to divorce his search for peace abroad and harmony at home from partisan considerations.

But in his Detroit speech Johnson made it clear he doesn't like all that he hears in the current campaign.

Some White House aides argued afterwards that his hold-the-line address could only help Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, front runner for the Democratic presidential nomination.

This was based on the theory that Humphrey's Vietnam position is far closer to Johnson's than that of his chief rival for the nomination, Sen. McCarthy, who is calling for a total and unconditional bombing halt.

But some others, outside the White House, wondered if the gainer might not be the Republican nominee, Richard M. Nixon, whose Vietnam policy in many respects is close to a carbon copy of Johnson's.

Nixon preceded Johnson to the VFW convention by barely an hour, speaking briefly and informally but mirroring in advance some of the key points that Johnson subsequently emphasized.

Here is what the political candidates are saying: "What must come first is not to stop the bombing, but to stop the killing of American boys."

— Republican presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon, about demands that the United States immediately suspend bombing of North Vietnam.

"I will yield to no one—no one—in a quest for a lasting and honorable peace." — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, Democratic presidential contender.

"I want a program to minimize contacts with the enemy. We should withdraw to just a defensive role." — Sen. George S. McGovern, Democratic presidential contender, calling for halt to all U.S. bombing in Vietnam except where necessary to break up direct threats to U.S. troops.

"Today its (the United Nations) voice has become the voice of Communist propaganda, distributed liberally to the undeveloped countries, and these world-savers—some of whom are new to shoes—dare to sit in judgement on the complex internal affairs of nations 10 times their age." — Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox, Democratic presidential contender.

Hearing Set on Election Violation

WEST MEMPHIS, Ark. (AP) — Johnny Lang of Pine Bluff is scheduled to appear in West Memphis Municipal Court Wednesday morning on charges of distributing election material on an election day and distributing unsigned election material.

Lang, a Negro field representative for the state Republican party, allegedly violated the state voting laws during the Democratic primary runoff Aug. 13.

Bond on each charge was set at $1,000 by Judge Edward Rubens. Six Negroes, including five teenagers, were charged last week at West Memphis with charges similar to those filed against Lang.

help athletic programs in any way possible and this includes buying equipment that would not be purchased otherwise.

In recent years the Club has purchased many items such as a blocking sled, movie camera, projector and film for recording all football games, concession stand equipment for Jones Field House etc. They have chartered buses for games a great distance away such as Crossett and they furnish fresh oranges and prange juice for players; hold picnics for the team, sponsor a football banquet, purchased cabinets for storing blazers, dress ties for road trips, megaphones for coaches, bought a whirlpool for injured athletes, and traveling bags for members of the girls basketball team.

Anyone is eligible to be a member, the only requirement is the desire to help boost athletics. Ladies are welcome and urged to attend meetings.

The Club dictates in no way to the athletic department but attempts to aid coaches and faculty for a better sports program. Coaches will try to show a film at all regular meetings, some of the Bobcats and college games.

So when that young lady asks you to join the Booster Club, don't turn her down as she is about the best Bobcat Booster and the best Hope Ambassador there is and win, lose or draw she'll be backing those Bobcats and the entire athletic program at Hope High School.

Capitalistic Farmer
The development of farm machinery in the 20th century has put the modern farmer in the capitalist class. Today the average American farm worker has about 40 horsepower at his command, as against 1.6 h.p. in 1870, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

ARTERBURY-GRIFFITH VOWS EXCHANGED
Miss Nona Marie Griffith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Boren of Texarkana, and M. Lynn Arterbury, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Arterbury of Hope, were united in marriage Friday, July 12 in a candlelight ceremony at 7 p.m. in the sanctuary of Tennessee Baptist Church, Texarkana, Ark.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Presswood, pastor of the church. Prior to the ceremony, Mrs. Mary Cook, pianist, presented nuptial music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Presswood, who sang "Where Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Vows were exchanged before a background of candelabras and candles in spiral candelabra. White baskets which held white and orchid gladioli with green foliage was in front of the altar. Lighting the candles were Mr. Dennis Arterbury of Hope, brother of the groom, and Mr. Mitchell Griffith of Texarkana, brother of the bride. They served also as ushers.

Given in marriage by her stepfather, Mr. Boren, the bride wore a floor-length A-line design gown of peau d'ange lace over silk. Scalloped lace enriched the neckline, long sleeves and skirt. Her veil was shoulder length, of matching material. The bride's only jewelry was a strand of pearls, a gift of the groom. She carried a bouquet of white orchids over a white Bible. She also carried the traditional "something old, new, borrowed and blue, with a six-pence in her shoe."

Miss Paula Griffith of Texarkana served as maid of honor. Misses Marie McKay and Frances Crank were bridesmaids. Little Miss Susan Flank was flower girl. Each wore floor-length formal gowns of orchid satin with orchid bouquets and pill box veils of matching colors.

Mr. Kenneth Smith of Hope served the groom as best man. Groomsman were Mike Beaver of Hope and Johnnie Jones of Texarkana.

For the wedding, Mrs. Boren chose a light lilac silk dress with matching accessories. Mrs. Arterbury wore a light turquoise lace dress with matching accessories. Each wore a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Evans, grandmother of the bride, wore a corsage of white carnations.

A reception in the Fellowship Hall followed the wedding. Aunts of the bride served the three tiered wedding cake and punch. For the wedding trip to Northern Arkansas and Hot Springs, the bride chose an orange two-piece dress and the corsage from her bouquet. The couple is at home in Texarkana.

Coming, Going

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Any shrewd observer can tell that "Here Come the Brides" isn't a Western. But its trappings are pretty confusing.

The new ABC series is being shot in some familiar settings: the muddy main street lined by shanty-like shops, the local gathering place for fun and fights called Lotties. But instead of horses twitching their tails at the hitching posts, there are totem poles stuck here and there. Instead of those familiar rocks hiding the bushwhackers, there are painted backdrops of majestic trees and snow covered mountains.

"I guess you'd call it a North-Western," said a production man.

"Mostly comedy?" asked a bystander.

"Well," said the unit man thoughtfully, "I think a better word is roistering."

The roistering series is set in one of television's favorite time periods, post-Civil War, but the scene, for a change, is the lumber camp that became the city of Seattle, Wash. The format is pegged vaguely on a real incident, although it is hardly a novel springboard for fictional plots: the importation of marriageable girls for the bachelor pioneers.

This device is useful in television since it permits the wholesale introduction of pretty girls — 100 in the new series — into the story lines. Mail-order brides in movies and TV are always beautiful. And the assorted problems of courtship provide a great excuse for fights and skull-duggery.

The principal characters are three brothers, Jason, Jeremy and Joshua, timberland owners whose holdings are in constant peril because of the scheming by the show's villain, the saw-mill owner.

With this wealth of basic ingredients, the series could run just about forever, merely by picking any two elements to combine in a single plot.

Best known performer in the series is Joan Blondell, who plays Lottie, warm-hearted and generous like all TV's lady saloonkeepers. Since the series is to be shown early on Wednesday evenings — an hour when television worries about the children in the audience — Lottie's establishment in an all-male lumber camp is depicted as a rather primitive but pleasant soft drink establishment.

Shooting of one scene was delayed several minutes this week for the remodeling of the neckline on Miss Blondell's rather modest period costume: It was deemed too revealing for youthful eyes.

Our heroes could pass as cow-country pioneers, except that they wear knives instead of guns and bits of fur peak out at the tops of their boots. None of the men playing the Bolt brothers is well known, but the one to

Brand-Generic Drugs Not Always Same

By JACK MILLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A team of university scientists say they have found differences in the way brand-name and generic drugs behave in the body.

"Our findings raise serious doubts about the equality of different products of the same drug in the treatment of disease," said Dr. Christopher M. Martin, head of the five-man research team at Georgetown University.

But Dr. Herbert L. Ley Jr., commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration, which authorized the university to do the research, issued a statement on the findings cautioning that:

"The Food and Drug Administration has in no sense concluded that 'generic' drugs are less effective as a class than 'brand-name' products."

Dr. Ley said, "In my opinion, there are fewer than two dozen drugs where therapeutic differences among competing products may be a problem."

A brand-name drug generally is defined as one put out by the company that originated it. A generic is another company's version of the same chemical compound.

Generics can be made when the originator's 17-year patent runs out or when the originator "licenses out" the drug to other companies.

Generic drugs often sell for less than the brand version — sometimes for a fraction as much. It has been contended in some quarters that there was no significant difference in the performances of generic and brand-name drugs.

Dr. Martin said in a paper that his team found that some generic drugs were absorbed in the blood streams of well volunteers more slowly than brand-name versions. And he said at least one generic product was absorbed much faster than the brand-name drug.

We talked about automatic plays yesterday. Some plays are more automatic than others. Today's play would be recognized as such by 10 or maybe 20 players. A couple of hundred more would recognize it after careful study of the dummy. If you can work it out looking at all four hands you belong in the expert class. South didn't quite figure it out.

He started out at trick two by playing the ace of hearts and a low heart to dummy. Then he ruffed a club high, entered dummy with a third trump, and ruffed the last club.

So far he was right on the beam. Then he played out his ace and jack of spades. East was in with the queen. It had taken South a long while to make this series of plays and East had figured out his one chance. He got off lead with the 10 of diamonds!

South let it ride around to dummy's queen and returned a low diamond. East followed low and after some futile communing with himself, South went up with the ace and another slam had gone into limbo.

Let's see where South went wrong.

Before playing spades South should have led a diamond to dummy's king. Then, when he

HELEN HELP US!

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!
This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help Us!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help Us! in this newspaper.

IT'S ALL IN THE WAY YOU LOOK AT IT
Dear Helen: I'm not a smart aleck kid who wants to be funny. This is on the level. Some time ago you ran a series of letters both defending and condemning people who went nude around the house. I believe you even said yourself that "nude is the only way to swim."

Well, I'm a male, 16, a non-student. I don't know if "nude" is the word to describe me, but ever since I can remember I have disliked wearing clothes. I am far more comfortable and relaxed when I don't have to worry about them. I would go nude all the time, if I could, but my parents don't approve of this "bare" business. They act shocked and disgusted when they see me sitting around nude in my room. Once when they weren't home I forgot and went out to get the paper. The neighbors almost had me arrested for indecent exposure until I explained, and even now they avoid me.

I'd like to join a nudist colony but suppose I can't until I'm of age. Meanwhile, may I say a few words in defense of those who want to be as God made us, and see nothing "dirty" about it? Man clothed himself for protection against the elements, and somehow it got all mixed up with morals, which seems pretty stupid to me. I have very high moral standards, and I say those who look on nudity as a sin are the ones who should worry about theirs, because they're filled with theirs, because they're filled with depraved thoughts.

KEPT UNDERWRAPS
Dear K.U.: You could be right, but society being as it is, don't try to prove you case on Main Street. Would a pair of short shorts be too much of a compromise?—H.

Here's an answer for that bored girl to use against the Great American Yack—her bragging boyfriend: "He who thinks by the inch and talketh by the yard deserveth to be kicked by the foot!"—READER

Dear Helen: It looks like we aren't going to be home for a while, so maybe you'll print this letter. I'm a soldier serving in Vietnam.

I've been in the Service little over a year. While I have written to my so-called friends often, I never get a reply. I guess they keep putting off letters because they're "too busy." We're pretty busy over here too, and the nights get mighty long when you're wondering if a shell or a sniper might make this one your last.

Each day you can walk into any barracks and tell who got a letter and who didn't. We all look forward to mail call, and we pray for a word from home. It means a lot to know you aren't forgotten.

If my letter starts just one more person writing, I'll know it wasn't in vain. Even if you don't know the guy very well, get his address and write him a letter! You don't know how much it helps!—GEORGE

Dear Readers: ... And if you don't know a Serviceman personally, you soon will, if you send your "Letter to a Serviceman" inside another envelope addressed to VIETNAM MAIL CALL, Box 3104-A, Columbus, Georgia. Enclose a dime for overseas postage.

If you want a reply, make your letter interesting, chatty, fun—and ask for an answer. Happy writing!—H.

Golf Pros Form Own Association

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Golf's touring pros, their break with the Professional Golfers' Association an accomplished fact, are in business for themselves today, negotiating for contracts and contacting sponsors.

The split between the 52-year-old PGA and the rebel tourists became official Monday when the players' attorney, Sam Gates, announced formation of the American Professional Golfers' Association. An organization he said includes all the top names in the golf world.

"I have 205 clients—I have counted them," he said. "We are negotiating for tournaments and television contracts now. We will have announcements when they are completed."

The new group insists, however, it will honor all commitments for the remainder of this year and for two tournaments already under contract for 1969. That is, if they're allowed to. Max Elbin, president of the PGA—which also represents some 6,000 club pros—said earlier that all the touring pros will be polled, asked if they wish to remain members of the PGA or of the rival group.

If they say they do not wish to remain in the PGA and abide by its regulations, "They presumably will have forfeited their right to play," he said. "Our boys have no intention of resigning from the PGA," said Gates. "They hope they can remain members of the PGA."

Both sides insist money is not the principal issue in the dispute—although millions of dollars are at stake.

"It's a matter of control of the tour," Elbin said. "The touring pros don't agree to our (PGA executive committee) control. We have the experience, the know-how, the organization. I can't see their desire to escape the PGA. I don't understand it. The PGA has made millions of some of these men."

Gates, asked about a rumor that Arnold Palmer and Bob Rosburg might break away and form a tour of their own, said: "We have no renegades. I have had long talks with Palmer and Rosburg. You don't have to worry about them."

The new group will have headquarters in New York, has filed articles of incorporation, a training school, field staff and legal counsel. It will have a board of directors of seven players and four from the general public. The head of the organization has not been announced.

It has an organizing committee of 13 players. They are Jack Nicklaus, Bill Casper, Gardner Dickinson, Frank Beard, Doug Ford, Bob Goaly, Lionel Hebert, Dave Marr, Jerry Barber, Bob Rosburg, Kermit Zarley, Dave Eichelberger and Dan Sikas.

That group plans a meeting Wednesday in Philadelphia, site of the Philadelphia Golf Classic starting Thursday.

The PGA, meanwhile, insists it will continue in the tour business. "We will continue to play tournament golf. It will be tough at first, but we will continue," Elbin said.

And Leo Fraser, secretary of the PGA, said, "We've got 6,000 little factories (clubs) turning out potential stars for us."

Nicaragua, Canada Open LL Play

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — The 22nd annual Little League World Series was scheduled to open at 2 p.m. today with Nicaragua, a country never before represented, playing Canada, a country that has never won the title.

In the 5 p.m. second game, the North Region, represented by Terre Haute, Ind., was set to take on the South, represented by a team from the Richmond, Va., area.

This year's series will be played in a new $300,000 stadium, which will be dedicated before the championship game Saturday. The 4,500-seat structure will replace temporary bleachers that have been used since 1959.

Chance Hurls Minnesota Over Yanks

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
Minnesota silenced one of the New York Yankees' bats with the wave of an umpire's hand ... and left the rest to Chance.

Baltimore left it all to Jim Hardin and got the same results as the Twins. Dean Chance hurled the Twins to a 1-0 victory over the Yankees Monday night in a game played under protest by New York Manager Ralph Houk after umpire John Rice banned Bobby Cox's sawed-off bat in the third inning.

Hardin muffed California on two hits and slammed a run-scoring double in the seventh that sent the Orioles past the Angels 1-0.

Boston's Dave Morehead shut out Cleveland 3-0 on four hits for his first triumph of the season and Washington overcame Oakland 4-1 with a four-run rally in the ninth. Detroit's American League leaders and the Chicago White Sox were idle.

In the National League St. Louis blanked Philadelphia 2-0, Chicago trimmed Atlanta 5-1, Cincinnati routed Pittsburgh 8-3, Houston downed Los Angeles 8-5 and San Francisco shaded New York 1-0 in 17 innings.

Rice refused to allow Cox to hit in the third inning at Minnesota with a bat which had been flattened at the top. Cox beat out an infield hit with a conventional warclub, but Houk lodged a protest—later withdrawn—on the grounds that other umpires had permitted use of the altered bat.

"I don't care what they use as long as I get them out," said Chance, who scattered eight hits, struck out 10 and pitched out of two late jams in nailing his fifth shutout of the season for a 12-1 mark.

The Twins pushed over the game's lone run against Stan Bahnsen, 11-9, on Cesar Tovar's pop fly double and a throwing error by shortstop Tom Tresh in the third. Bahnsen allowed only one other hit before leaving for a pinch hitter in the eighth.

Chance stranded the tying run on third in the eighth by getting Horace Clarke to bounce into a double play and again in the ninth by fanning Tresh on three pitches for the final out.

Hardin, a 25-year-old fireballer, had little trouble subduing the Angels for his 16th victory against eight losses. He didn't allow a hit until Bobby Knoop's single to center with one out in the sixth, walked none, struck out eight and left only two Angels on the bases.

Dave Johnson doubled off Jim McGlothlin with one out in the seventh and Hardin, an .090 hitter, broke the scoreless deadlock with a two-out double that sailed over left fielder Rick Reichardt's head.

The victory carried the second-place Orioles to within 6½ games of Detroit.

Morehead, beaten in his only two previous decisions, out-pitched Cleveland ace Luis Tiant, 18-9, who left after six innings with a share of the major league strikeout lead. Tiant fanned six Red Sox to match teammate Sam McDowell's season total of 222 strikeouts.

Two walks and Elston Howard's single produced the first of two Boston runs in the second inning. The Red Sox added another in the third on successive doubles by Dalton Jones and Carl Yazstrzanski.

Oakland's John "Blue Moon" Odom checked the Senators on five hits until the ninth, when they charged from behind with the help of throwing errors by Sal Bando and Rick Monday.

Ed Stroud started the rally with a single and third baseman Bando heaved wildly past first after fielding Ken McMullen's sacrifice bunt, allowing Stroud to score the tying run. McMullen took second on the error and tallied on Frank Howard's single. The third and fourth runs came in on a single by Paul Casanova and a wild throw by center fielder Monday.

Green Bay Drops Second in a Row

By KEN HARTNETT
Associated Press Sports Writer
MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — The world champion Green Bay Packers, hoping to prove they can win without a taskmaster head coach, have dropped a second straight National Football League exhibition.

And if anyone felt worse than new Coach Phil Bengtson after Monday night's 10-7 loss to the Chicago Bears, it had to be Bengtson's players.

"When you like a guy, you feel much more responsible," said veteran guard Jerry Kramer. "We're all extremely disappointed in ourselves."

The Packers, who rarely dropped two straight under the stern Vince Lombardi-Bengtson's predecessor—seemed old and tired in bowing to the Bears, who are also being handled by a rookie coach, Jim Dooley.

Dooley was understandably happy after the win which came despite 14 penalties which cost the Bears 120 yards and repeated scoring opportunities.

"Understand, man, I don't ever care about those penalties when they're aggressive ones; as long as they're not stupid," yelled Dooley to guard George Seals.

Seals, in what he described as a moment of "overenthusiasm," drew a 15-yard penalty for an unkink out he took at Packer linebacker Dave Robinson during the nationally televised game.

The Bears, who struck behind Gale Sayers' 76-yard touchdown run on the second play of the game, added a 42-yard Mac Percival field goal before the half.

A 14-yard Bart Starr pass to Boyd Dowler capped the Packers' only sustained drive of the game at the start of the second half. It was a final gasp. A field goal attempt by Wade Trynam from the 37-yard-line with 1:56 left was off mark.

Timmy Brown and Emerson Boozer started making up for lost time Monday. Halfback Brown had his first workout with the Baltimore Colts. So did running back Boozer with the New York Jets.

"We're just going to work him extra hard," said Coach Don Shula of the Colts in referring to Brown, who originally had planned to retire. Brown is expected to add a running punch to help the passing of quarterback Johnny Unitas.

Boozer, released from the Army last week, similarly is expected to supply a running threat for the Jets and make the passing of Joe Namath more effective.

Duck Season Cut in Half By Board

MOUNTAIN HOME, Ark. (AP) — The duck season, which ran 40 days in 1967, was cut in half and the daily limit reduced Monday by the state Game and Fish Commission.

The commission set the 20-day season from Dec. 6 through Dec. 25 and the limit at three ducks daily, including two mallards. The limit last year was four ducks, including two mallards.

Shooting hours were set from a half hour before sunrise to sunset.

The season announced by the commission was the same as that recommended last week by Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark.

The Mississippi Flyway Council, of which Arkansas is a member, had recommended a 26-day season with a daily limit of three ducks, but not more than one mallard. Arkansas hunters contended that 90 per cent of Arkansas ducks are mallards and that the council's recommendation would ruin the season in the state.

In other business Monday, the commission: — Recommended to Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller that William E. Mathis, chief of the Fisheries Division, be appointed to the state Water Resources Committee.

— Adopted a motion that any person may run deer dogs for training purposes from Oct. 5 through Dec. 31 as long as no runs are carried.

— Agreed to contribute $7,477 to participate with the University of Arkansas in financing the development of a new technique to determine the ability of an area to support deer. The university is to contribute $4,135.

— Voted to allow commercial fishermen to begin commercial fishing in the White River refuge Sept. 1 instead of Oct. 1.

— Voted to allow private developers on Lake Conway to build a narrow canal inland to provide waterfront areas for lots.

— Voted to pay $100 an acre for 3,155 acres in Poinsett County to preserve a stand of forest. The land is adjacent to about 6,000 acres already owned by the commission.

Has to Fight a Losing Tradition

By Ron RAPOPORT

Associated Press Sports Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — When a new coach takes over a professional football team, he figures to have his work cut out for him: assessing personnel, introducing formations and attending to dozens of unfamiliar details.

But Dick Nolan, who this year assumed control of the San Francisco 49ers, has another problem on top of all the others: fighting a tradition of losing.

Since 1950, when the 49ers joined the National Football League from the old All-American Conference, they have never won a Western Division title. The closest they have come was in 1957 when the tied for first.

Nolan was a nine-year NFL veteran when in 1963 he joined the coaching staff of the Dallas Cowboys and, under Tom Landry, learned what coaching a winner is like.

"We're building something here," Nolan said recently, reflecting on the first few weeks he has spent with the club. "They have to believe they can win."

24-year-old Graebner had to conquer this temper and survive a bitter struggle for a 6-2, 6-3, 3-6, 5-7, 7-5 victory over unheralded Sherwood Stewart, a Lamar Tech student from Baytown, Tex., ranked 38th in 1967.

"I was nervous after falling into a bad position and anybody who thinks I wasn't is crazy," Graebner said.

Stewart, a muscular power hitter, broke Graebner in the first game of the third set and Graebner, who won the deciding singles match for the U.S. victory over Spain in the Davis Cup interzone matches Sunday, was upset.

Arthur Ashe, the top-seeded American just ahead of Graebner, gets his first test on the grass courts today, the halfway mark of the 10-day tournament. Ashe completed the Davis Cup victory in Cleveland Monday and then flew here. He had two singles and a doubles scheduled for his first day.

Laguna Wants Another Title Shot

NEW YORK (AP) — Ismael Laguna wants another shot at the lightweight title and he wants to make money.

If the skinny Panamanian contender sat it out on the sidelines he might get a crack at the title in November or December. But he wouldn't make any money.

So tonight the figures to make $10,000 or more for taking on tough, ambitious, streaking Lloyd Marshall of Newark, N.J., in the feature bout of a card of three 10-rounders at Madison Square Garden.

A defeat by Marshall would wipe out Laguna's hopes of getting the first crack at the winner of Sept. 14 title fight between champion Teo Cruz and Mando Ramos at Los Angeles.

Laguna, a flashy 25-year-old boxer-puncher, shapes up as a 2-1 choice over the 23-year-old Marshall, another boxer-puncher.

Laguna, 52-5-1, 31 knockouts, is ranked No. 1 contender by Ring Magazine and No. 2 by the World Boxing Association. Marshall, 19-4, 10 knockouts, is ranked sixth by Ring and seventh by the WBA.

Travs Lead Reduced to Two Games

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — El Paso completed a sweep of their Texas League series with Arkansas Monday night, knocking off the Travelers 6-2 at El Paso.

The loss, coupled with Shreveport's split of a doubleheader at San Antonio, reduced the Travs lead over the Braves to two games in the Eastern Division.

Jim Spencer smashed a three-run homer in the first inning as El Paso jumped out to a 4-0 lead. Tom Silvario homered in the fifth and Jarvis Tatum added a solo shot in the eighth.

Vern Gelshtert stopped the Travs on five hits during the first eight innings but he failed to retire a man in the ninth.

Len Boyer doubled to right field for two runs in the ninth following singles by John Spin, Mike Christino and Bill Murphy.

Steve Kealey got Gary Stone on a pop fly and then struck out Jerry Davanon and Boots Day.

Memphis scored its third straight victory over Albuquerque, knocking off the Dodgers 7-2. The Blues scored single runs in the first and second innings and were never headed. The Dodgers did not score until the seventh.

San Antonio defeated Shreveport 1-0 in the first game but the Braves won the second game 10-6. Amarillo beat Dallas-Fort Worth 6-4 in other Texas League action.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — George C. Wallace likes to illustrate to audiences the purpose of his run for the presidency with an anecdote.

He says a reporter asked him recently whether he had changed his tune since his primary campaign four years ago, no longer dwelling on race.

The former Alabama governor replied, "I haven't changed a bit. You just weren't listening then, I'm saying the same thing now and it has nothing to do with race but philosophy of government."

True? One who watched Wallace campaign in Indiana's Democratic primary in 1964 and who accompanied him through the same state last week, would question whether race could be so neatly separated, then or now, from the Wallace philosophical message.

But the free-swinging Wallace campaigning across the nation today is not the cautious, often tense Wallace who carried his crusade out of Dixie into the alien North four years ago.

His message is much the same; his rhetoric subtly different. The difference is revealing. As an instance, four years ago Wallace put down hecklers at the University of Indiana with the coolly delivered line: "I al-know how to handle money better than women. The truth tends the other way.

Man is by nature the more romantic and irresponsible of the two sexes. At heart he resents the symbolic dominance money has in his life. He would, if he followed his inclinations, run wild in the woodlands, laughing and scratching, chasing his day-dreams and living on blueberries. Civilization would go to Hades.

It is woman who is the preserver, the saver, the responsible one. She doesn't dislike money at all. She cherishes it, because money gives her power. It will get for her the things in life she could never win by her feeble muscles alone.

Some of the most successful marriages I know are those in which the husband invariably—well, almost invariably—brings home his paycheck unscathed and dumps it in his wife's lap.

Such a husband is neither cowed nor kind. He is cunning. He has wisely learned that it is better for a man to give his wife the cash—and get the credit for it.

By a simple stroke of genius he has made his slave for life a wife who, had he kept her on a household dole, would have fought him through a nagging eternity.

For women do have consciences. And when you give a wife the task of disbursing the family income, it immediately makes her responsible. She turns from a spendthrift into a miser. She'll spend willingly so that you and the kids live and dress well, but get so she hates to spend a penny on herself—because it makes her feel selfish and guilty to do so.

That's the secret of dealing with a modern wife, young man. Put your income into her hands and you've got her in your palm—a willing drudge forever. And she'll never quite know how you did it.

ways thought a hallmark of the liberal mind was its eagerness to hear all viewpoints.

Last week in Fort Wayne, he outshouted hecklers with such unadorned cracks as, "What you need is a good haircut," and, "These free-speech folks know all sort of four-letter words except w-o-r-k and s-o-a-p."

In 1964 Wallace believed his public image outside the South was, as he once confided, that of "an ignorant ol' hookwormy redneck from Alabama." His articulate, genial, even sophisticated manner on the hustings was plainly disarming to his adversaries and counted much toward his success.

This year he apparently believes success depends on ridiculing rather than sophistication.

He talks of "guideline writers with pointed heads who can't even park their bicycles straight," and of "briefcase to tin" bureaucrats telling you how to run your lives, and mockingly mispronounces words such as "rapport" and "dialogue" which, he says, "sophisticated people use instead of good old eyeball-to-eyeball talking."

His rhetoric, in fact, is reminiscent of his 1962 campaign for governor of Alabama when he repeatedly called a federal judge "a carpetbagging, scalawagging, integrating, race-mixing, bald-faced liar."

Wallace says his appeal is to "the average person on the street—the barbers, beauticians, policemen, firemen, steelworkers and ordinary working people who are going to decide this election."

His total approach seems calculated to win them over. A 10-piece band travels with him to warm up audiences with Sousa marches and old favorite tunes, and a platoon of attractive young "Wallace girls," who use little makeup and wear skirts that end discreetly just above the knee, mingle in the audience and pass contribution baskets.

Wallace says his third party candidacy is not for the purpose of being a spoiler in this year's election; he's out to win.

He points out that with three candidates running all he needs is 34 per cent of the popular vote in each state to win its electoral votes, and he believes enough "average people" in enough states share his views to make his election possible.

He also apparently feels the best way to reach them is with a style that combines colloquialism and calico—a style that once won for him more votes than any man who preceded him to the Alabama governor's office.

Lions Send Back to the Falcons

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions sent veteran running back Amos Marsh to the Atlanta Falcons Monday in exchange for a 1969 draft choice.

Another Transplant at Houston

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A 50-year-old shoe salesman, the second heart transplant recipient in Houston in two days, was described as satisfactory after the operation Monday.

Carl Van Bates of Amarillo, Tex., became the world's 32nd human heart recipient in a 100-minute operation performed by a team of Texas Heart Institute surgeons.

The donor was Mrs. Gasper B. Geaccone Jr., 37, a Houston mother of two children. She died as a result of a brain tumor.

Less than 36 hours earlier, surgeons led by Dr. Denton A. Cooley implanted the heart of an 11-year-old boy in the chest of Maria Giannaris, 5, of Hagerstown, Md.

The girl, also listed as satisfactory, played with a color book and complained of being hungry Monday.

The heart transfers were the 9th and 10th performed at St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital.

Maria, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nick A. Giannaris, had heart trouble since she was an infant. She received the heart of James Dudley Herron II, son of James Dudley Herron, a professor at Purdue University at Lafayette, Ind. The boy had suffered a brain hemorrhage and died Sunday after he was flown here.

"With this child we now have an opportunity to study some important growth factors," Cooley told a news conference. "This case offers a wealth of material to study and we have the facilities needed for conducting such studies." He said the operation apparently was a success.

The first child to receive a transplanted heart, a 2½-week-old boy, died several hours after a December operation in Brooklyn. The donor was a 2-day-old infant.

Bates entered the hospital four weeks ago. His wife Bonnie said he last suffered a heart attack on Christmas Eve 1967.

Cruiser Rams Into Reef

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Like many a sailing ship before her, a 38-foot cruiser with 10 people aboard rammed into Duxbury Reef 15 miles north of here Sunday in a fog.

The Sportsfisherman sank within minutes. Her 10 occupants scrambled on to rocks. But a Coast Guard cutter and helicopter couldn't find them in the fog.

The tide ebbed, and the 10 stranded persons picked their way to shore—only to find themselves on a narrow, cliff-rimmed beach.

Finally the Bolinas Bay Fire Department lowered ropes over the cliff, and hauled the 10 to safety.

Double Vote Fines Are Suspended

MAGNOLIA, Ark. (AP) — Felony charges against nine Magnolia residents were reduced to misdemeanor charges Monday following an investigation by Prosecutor John Graves, who said he did not think the violations were intentional.

The nine persons pleaded guilty in Circuit Court to the charges of voting in both the Democratic and Republican primaries July 30.

Circuit Judge Harry Crumpler fined each $100 and revoked their voting privileges for five years. He then suspended the fines and revocation in each case.

Crumpler said he believed it was "legally and morally wrong" to cast a ballot in both primaries on the same day.

"We feel the violations were not intentional or part of a conspiracy and that prosecution under the felony charges would be following the law to the extent of injustice," Graves said. "We are only trying to maintain integrity in the ballot box."

The nine who pleaded guilty were George W. Steinhause, Katherine Steinhause, William H. Ruble, Beatrice Grayson, Pledger R. Grayson, Mattie Faye Brigham, William J. Brigham, Elmer R. Doss Jr., and Herbert D. Turner.

Good Habits, Say Climbers

LONE PINE, Calif. (AP) — What enables three septuagenarians to tramp to the summit of Mt. Whitney, the nation's second-highest mountain, passing scores of puffing hikers as they go?

"We try to follow the Bible's examples of good living habits," explained Hulda Crooks, 72, Loma Linda, Calif., after finishing her seventh climb up the 14,495-foot mountain in seven years.

She made the 11½-mile trek in 7½ hours Sunday with her brothers, Dr. Edward Hoehn, 75, Angwin, Calif., and Chris Haines, 77, Issaquah, Wash. All are vegetarians, nondrinkers, nonsmokers and Seventh Day Adventists.

THE WELL CHILD

Some Bubble Baths May Cause Infections

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Although a bubble bath is not a necessity, its use in children's baths has become popular, perhaps on the theory that, if you can make of bathing a game, you won't have so hard a time luring your child into the tub. Now it has been shown that at least some of these preparations may cause irritation and infection of the urethra or bladder.

The symptoms most often complained of are frequency of urination and pain on passing the urine. Boys developed ulcers or narrowing of the outlet of the urethra. The trouble cleared up within a few days after stopping the bubble baths. This failed to convince a few mothers that the innocent-looking bubble bath was at fault until they found that the trouble returned when they resumed its use.

If you are a mother, your first reaction to this startling bit of news may be: "Damn! Someone is always taking the joy out of life." But please try to look at it this way—I'm only trying to keep some of the grief out of life for your child.

Q—My grandson, 9, has nephritis. Is it contagious? How did he get it? Is there a cure for it?

A—Nephritis is an inflammation of the kidneys. It is usually a complication of an acute infection elsewhere in the body, most likely a streptococcal infection in the respiratory system. It is not directly contagious but the underlying respiratory disease is. About 97 per cent of all children who get acute nephritis make a complete recovery. During the acute stage they must be kept in bed and given a low-protein, salt-poor diet. But, after they start to improve, these measures are no longer required.

Q—My daughter, 11, has had nephrosis for 4½ years. Where can we get more information about this disease?

A—Write to the National Kidney Foundation, 342 Madison Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017.

Q—Last August, my son, 7, was operated on for an inguinal hernia. One of the stitches has not healed. It flares up like a pimple which breaks and oozes. Our doctor says it will heal in time. What do you think?

A—This sounds as though a deep pocket of infection has formed at the site of the stitch. Such wounds must heal from within outward. This often requires laying the wound open and applying an antibiotic.

Clark said he was optimistic agreement on the format would be reached. But a Humphrey aide, Ted Van Dyke, said prospects for holding the debate will depend on whether the equal time problem "can be worked out to the satisfaction of all the candidates."

Sen. George S. McGovern, who announced his Democratic candidacy two weeks ago, has said his exclusion from the Humphrey-McCarthy debate violates the Federal Communications Commission's equal time provision.

The Columbia Broadcasting System, handling arrangements for the networks, has offered McGovern a half-hour broadcast, sometime after the Humphrey-McCarthy exchange.

Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox, who entered the Democratic race Saturday, called Monday for a debate between all four Democratic presidential aspirants but did not refer specifically to the Friday night time.

The McCarthy camp originally proposed three separate debates on foreign affairs, domestic policy and concepts of the presidency.

But an aide said now that there will be only one debate it should be open to a free exchange and not categorized into three 20-minute segments.

In separate development, a McCarthy spokesman said it was "ridiculous and completely unfounded" to say McCarthy had withdrawn from an NBC "Meet the Press" appearance with Humphrey next Sunday.

"We had never committed Sen. McCarthy to the show but had tried hard to work out a mutual convenient time," said McCarthy's scheduling director, Norval Reese. "Any statement saying Sen. McCarthy withdrew is ridiculous and completely unfounded."

Reese said McCarthy has a prior commitment for another live television interview in Washington Sunday and is to meet with the Illinois Democratic delegation later in the day in Chicago.

a Veterans of Foreign Wars convention in Detroit. Monday night, called for a minute of prayer for the stricken general with whom he has always had a close relationship.

Then Johnson flew back to the capital instead of returning to his Texas ranch where he has spent most of the month. Whether an unannounced factor in Eisenhower's condition prompted the unexpected move was not known.

"Tonight as we meet here to honor America's veterans, one of the greatest of them all wages the greatest struggle of his life," said Johnson.

"The prayers and the hopes of all of us in this room—and all our people across the land—go out to Dwight D. Eisenhower," he added.

Eisenhower has had seven heart attacks since 1955, four since April.

The latest struck Friday afternoon and his condition since, although fluctuating, has carried him nearer to death.

Morrilton Chief Defends His Action

MORRILTON, Ark. (AP) — Morrilton Police Chief A. J. Walls said Monday that a recent problem between his men and Alcoholic Beverage Control Board agents was caused by an "uncooperative attitude" of the ABC.

ABC agents said last week that Morrilton Police refused to let them book five under-age persons for illegally purchasing beer.

Walls said he did not appreciate ABC agents operating in his jurisdiction without consulting him.

"I have always cooperated with the ABC," Walls said. "Last May I asked one of their agents, C. H. Harrelson, to get a new agent assigned to the city to help break up a bootleg operation. I needed someone who was a stranger. The ABC didn't furnish the man."

ABC agents, which Walls said acted without notifying his department, arrested a man for liquor law violations the day before they arrested the five persons for allegedly purchasing the beer.

"Since this seems to be their attitude, I told the boys to give them their own treatment," Walls said.

Joe Gaspard, who took over as ABC director about two months ago, said he felt the situation had been caused by a misunderstanding. He said he was unaware of the May request.

Four Railway Unions May Merge to One

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Nine months' work has resulted in a plan to unify four railroad operating unions into one union with a membership of 250,000.

Presidents of the unions announced the plan here Monday. The four unions involved are the Order of Railway Conductors and Brakemen, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Switchmen's Union of North America.

The merger, if approved by rank and file members of the unions, will result in the United Transportation Union. The members will vote on the proposal after it is submitted to the governing bodies of the four unions.

The final unity plan was worked out by ten-man committees from the four unions. A committee of four—one representative from each union—had previously drawn up proposals for consideration by the 40-man constitutional committee.

primary interest lies in the selection of a candidate he believes can defeat Republican nominee Richard M. Nixon in November. Both asked to remain anonymous in these forecasts.

However, a spokesman for McCarthy said that O'Brien's figures presented a biased picture of delegate strength. Rick Jascula, convention press coordinator for McCarthy, noted that O'Brien did not give state-by-state breakdowns.

"Where did they get those figures?" Jascula asked. "Anyone can play the numbers game and this is what we feel is being done."

McCarthy and Humphrey will have a chance to argue the point in a joint television appearance on the three major networks Friday night if format and equal time problems can be solved.

O'Brien, freshly arrived on the Chicago scene after feverish scanning of Washington reports on Humphrey's delegate strength, initiated the customary candidates' numbers game by scaling down the optimistic claims of advisers Humphrey has assembled here.

Robert McCandless, Washington attorney in charge of charting Humphrey's delegate count, told an informal news conference he thought his candidate would have more than 1,700 first ballot votes.

O'Brien swept this estimate aside with the statement that "a very hard and very realistic count" of firmly committed delegates added up the round figure of 1,400.

He said this did not take into account votes Humphrey is expected to get from California, New York, Texas and Illinois delegations. These could ac-

O'Brien estimated McCarthy has about 600 votes.

"Charity" for Aunt Jane?

Arthur took a trip out West to visit his ailing Aunt Jane. Next time he filed an income tax return, he deducted the cost of the trip as a "charitable contribution." Challenged by the government, he offered this explanation in court:

"I made that visit out of the goodness of my heart, to cheer up a sick old lady. I call that charity."

But whatever Arthur called it, the court held it was not charity—at least, not in the sense meant by the income tax laws.

Deduction of charitable contributions (up to a certain limit) has been allowed almost since the income tax began. The idea is that when you make such a contribution, you are not only being generous but also easing burdens that would otherwise fall upon the government.

Therefore, to qualify as charitable, your contribution must be of some public benefit—not just a favor to a particular individual. Usually this means giving to one of the organizations on an approved list, issued periodically by the government.

Typical of approved organizations are the Salvation Army, Community Chest, or Red Cross. But there are plenty of other worthy causes that will qualify.

Thus, a donation to an association for the benefit of American Indians was held deductible. So was a donation to an exchange set up for selling needlework done by deserving women.

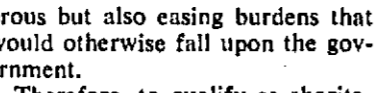

However, your contribution won't be deductible if the organization merely "sounds" charitable but isn't really.

In one case a taxpayer tried to deduct his gift to a certain church. But it turned out that this particular church was occupied less with saving souls than with running businesses. The court thereupon denied the deduction.

A gift may also be held non-deductible if the organization is substantially involved in trying to influence legislation. For by allowing such a deduction, the government—in effect—could be subsidizing one side or the other of a political issue.

What about a gift to the federal government itself? If given for a public purpose, the gift would indeed be deductible. Obviously, if you donate money to the federal treasury, you are easing Uncle Sam's burdens.

Ford Foundation Backs SNPA Search for Newspaper Talent

EDITOR'S NOTE: Our daily commentary steps aside today for the following report on the newspaper profession, released this week-end by Southern Newspaper Publishers Association of Chattanooga.

ATLANTA—An $850,000 continuing education program for Southern journalists was announced today by the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association Foundation and the Ford Foundation.

The program, which will be administered by the SNPA Foundation, will operate under a $425,000 grant from the Ford Foundation. Matching funds will be provided by SNPAF from other sources, including the newspaper industry.

A pilot program has been conducted during the past three years by the Southern Regional Education Board under an earlier Ford grant. When that project expires, the SNPA Foundation will assume direction of the program which, with some modifications, will continue uninterrupted.

Bert Struby of Macon, Ga., chairman of the SNPA Foundation, said the project is one of the most progressive and ambitious programs ever undertaken by newspapers and pointed to the significance of its being pioneered in the South. He expressed appreciation to the Ford Foundation for its confidence in and support of Southern publishers.

Read Saratt, who has been director of the journalist education project, is expected to continue as administrative head when SNPAF takes it over on January 1, 1969. The grant and project will extend over a five-year period.

Co-sponsorship by Southern newspaper publishers of such an extensive education program is unique in the annals of American journalism. SNPAF is the first such newspaper group to receive Ford funds for that purpose and to commit itself to match the grant from its own industry resources.

Dr. Winfred Godwin, director of the SREB, which conducted the initial project, was highly praised for his part in its development. "Without his valuable guidance and keen insight into the needs and potentials of this kind of continuing education for journalists, the pilot project could not have succeeded," Struby said.

Dr. Godwin described the Ford Foundation grant and the pledge of funds by SNPAF as "splendid developments."

"They are evidence of the desire of the Southern publishing community to continue to offer unusual educational opportunities to their staffs," Dr. Godwin explained. "The Southern Regional Education Board is delighted to have initiated this project, with Ford Foundation assistance, and to have developed the pattern for the program which can now be continued by the SNPA Foundation," he said.

The initial Ford grant to SREB was for a three-year program that ended June 30. During that period approximately 500 Southern journalists attended twenty seminars held at ten cooperating universities. An additional 28 journalists received fellowships for extended study in their fields of interest at universities of their choice. The Ford Foundation has made a supplementary grant to SREB to extend the pilot program of seminars through the remainder of 1968.

The SNPA Foundation plans to conduct a program of ten seminars each year after it assumes responsibility for operating the project on January 1, 1969.

Struby said, "The seminars will continue to be held at the universities that have participated in the pilot project. Additional universities also are expected to join the program as sponsors of seminars on a wide range of subjects."

As a part of the pilot project SREB has issued paperback books based on some of the seminars. Already four of the books have been published, and three others are in preparation. The SNPA Foundation expects to continue the seminar publications.

The SNPA Foundation was established last year through a series of actions culminating at the annual meeting of the SNPA membership at Colorado Springs in October. Candidates Set Debate for Friday

By JIM ADAMS

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, leading contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination, will debate on national television Friday night if format and equal time problems to be solved.

The McCarthy people want an open, uncategorized debate for the full hour—7:30 to 8:30 p.m. EDT Friday. Humphrey aides earlier reported a tentative agreement to divide it into three segments: foreign affairs, domestic policy, and concepts of the presidency.

"We're going to try to solve the problems and if we solve the problems then we'll go to the networks," McCarthy's campaign manager, Blair Clark, said Monday night.

He said all three networks have tentatively set aside the Friday night time, pending solution of the problems, and would carry the debate simultaneously.

Fulbright Asks That Platform Include a Call to End Bombings

By EDMOND LABRETTON

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic party threw open its Platform Committee hearings today to some of the most important figures on both sides of the controversy over a Vietnam policy statement.

Defending the Johnson administration's war policies in a special committee meeting tonight will be Secretary of State Dean Rusk. His appearance follows presentation of a statement by Arkansas Sen. J. William Fulbright, an arch-critic of the course followed in Vietnam.

Fulbright, head of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, argued in a prepared statement for a halt to U.S. bombing of North Vietnam and the inclusion of the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong, in any discussion of the future of South Vietnam.

Fulbright's position was similar in most respects to the stand of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, the major challenge to Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"It will be necessary at an early stage to bring the Saigon government and the National Liberation Front into the discussion of their country's future,"

To Make a Slave of Your Wife Let Her Handle Family Income

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Dear

Pavement Plato:

"Help, help, help! Since our marriage a year ago, all my wife and I seem to do is argue about money. I allot her a generous sum for household expenses, but she always spends more. She calls me a tightwad, but I am afraid she will bankrupt us unless she learns that money doesn't grow on trees. Do you have any suggestions?"

Desperate!

Your plight is commonplace, young man, but cheer up—salvation is simple.

Like many new husbands, you are living in the past. You are trying to be a "yesterday husband" in today's world.

The husband of yesterday, as soon as he broke away from his mother's apron strings, sought to assert his masculinity by tying his bride to him with his own purse strings. He tried to make her a prisoner of his pocketbook by putting her on a strict budget that would teach her the value of a dollar.

That system may have worked once, young man, but it doesn't anymore. It is old hat. It has gone down the drain of time.

You may congratulate yourself on knowing the value of a buck, but you show a deplorable ignorance of the psychology of modern women.

Certainly, it is wise for every family to operate on a budget, one that is as flexible as possible. But why do you think you have a heaven-sent right to fix that budget and boss it like a despot?

For you to attempt to do so is bound to result in endless wrangling and may result in your having to pay alimony to an ex-wife—which would be a blow to your pride as well as your bank account.

Have you considered the alternative? Assuming you want to hold on to your bride, why not let her run the budget? Why not, indeed, let her handle all the family income? The result may surprise you.

It is a male delusion that men

Transplant for Ike Is Rejected

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army doctors reported today that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's prospects for survival are "guarded" — meaning unpredictable—at this point.

By FRANK CAREY

AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Doctors attending former President Dwight D. Eisenhower describing his condition as still critical, have disclosed that they once seriously considered—then rejected—the possibility of a heart transplant.

Word of the possible transplant was included in the latest bulletin issued at Walter Reed Army Hospital, which said the 77-year-old five-star Army general was resting comfortably with fewer instances of the irregular heart beat that had brought him near death after his seventh heart attack.

The report of the decrease in irregularity struck a relatively optimistic note in the 10:30 p.m. bulletin compared to an earlier bulletin Monday afternoon which said his condition had worsened.

In the late evening report the doctors also for the first time publicly mentioned that they had considered—and rejected—the possibility of a heart transplant.

Humphrey Has Votes, Many Vow

CHICAGO (AP) — Democratic professionals ratify the claim of Hubert H. Humphrey's aides that it's all over but the loud shouting and the vice president will be the next party presidential nominee.

The claim of Lawrence F. O'Brien, former postmaster general and former strategist for the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, that Humphrey has amassed a hard rock base of 1,400 convention votes—with 1,312 needed for the nomination at next week's convention—got solid support from party leaders who have clocked such operations before.

One prominent Democrat, who has stood aside from Humphrey's battle with Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., said there was no doubt in his mind that the vice president would roll to an impressive victory on the first ballot.

His assessment was backed by another party leader whose

President Rules Out Further Cutbacks in Bombing in Vietnam

AP News Digest

By FRANK CORMIER

Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — President Johnson, rejecting a total bombing halt of North Vietnam or other de-escalation of the war, says he will go no further in the search for peace until Hanoi shows sincere signs of wanting to end the fighting.

Speaking Monday night to a convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Johnson said all moves by the United States to end the fighting have gone unanswered by the North Vietnamese.

"The next move must be theirs," he told a cheering audience.

The President seemed to be answering critics within his own party, particularly Sens. Eugene J. McCarthy and George McGovern, who have made opposition to the war major parts of their campaigns for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Pointedly referring to the fact that his term doesn't expire until next January, Johnson said, "This administration does not intend to move further until it has good reason to believe that the other side intends seriously to join with us in de-escalating the war and moving seriously towards peace."

While he is in office, Johnson emphasized again and again, he will call the shots and will not bend "to some of us who appear to be searching for a formula which would get us out of Vietnam and Asia on any terms."

In one of his strongest defenses of American actions in Vietnam, Johnson also predicted that his successor will wind up with the same policy, once he has all the information and responsibility that comes with the presidency.

"It's only thing to be seeking responsibility and it's another thing when you've got it," Johnson said about his critics.

The President went to Detroit from his Texas ranch, then flew to Washington. He had been in Texas most of this month.

In clearly emotional tones, Johnson said nobody wants peace more than he and he damned Hanoi for what he charged was its failure to respond clearly and affirmatively to his March 31 order restricting bombing of the North.

"Let's not be hoodwinked. Let's not be misled... We're not going to stop the bombing just to let them step up their bloodshed," Johnson declared.

"So long as I am your American commander in chief, we are not going to be found wanting," he told the cheering veterans.

Returning to politics, Johnson

700 Enemy Soldiers Are Killed

By GEORGE ESPER

Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Allied forces reported today killing more than 700 enemy soldiers in three days of enemy attacks and allied counterattacks ranging from the Cambodian border to the northern frontier.

But enemy forces overran one allied unit—outnumbered six-to-one—15 miles south of Da Nang today and killed all 10 U.S. Marine and 24 South Vietnamese defenders.

A relief force of South Korean marines rushed to the area but was unable to reach the besieged men because of explosions, believed touched off when the compound's ammunition dump caught fire.

U.S. fighter-bombers and artillery drove off the more than 300 enemy attackers. There were no reports of enemy casualties.

The new intensification of the ground war after a two-month lull shattered hopes that the enemy high command might be de-escalating to try to break the stalemate at the Paris peace talks.

U.S. headquarters reported at least 739 enemy and 69 Americans killed since the start of enemy attacks Sunday. Nearly 500 of the enemy deaths were inflicted since Monday, most of these in four battles around the provincial capital of Tay Ninh.

A new fight broke out five miles west of Tay Ninh City today when a U.S. 25th Infantry Division armor column came under a rocket attack while advancing along Highway 26, a military supply route. U.S. Air Force fighter-bombers were
